

schools of a neighboring county. She is a young lady of many graces of mind and person, who is capable of filling the home she will adorn with happiness.

The groom, our popular young druggist, is so well known by everybody that he needs no introduction to Enterprise readers. Suffice it to say that he has for a number of years owned a nice little house in this village and the taking unto himself of a wife was a step in the direction of transforming the house into a "home" in the true sense of the word.

The congratulations on the happy event are numerous and this paper is greatly pleased on this occasion to add its hearty good wishes to those being so freely extended.—Hannaford Enterprise.
