

Alm-Halling

A pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday, Aug. 11, 1920, at 11:30 a. m., when Miss Esther Halling, eldest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Halling, was united in marriage to Mr. Carsten Alm, of Hamar. Rev. Halling, the bride's father, performed the ceremony, which took place at the parsonage, in the presence of only immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The room in which the ceremony took place was decorated in a color scheme of pink, carried out effectively in flowers. A variety of flowers and ferns also adorned the other rooms, one in lavender and white asters, while the dining room decorations were in rose dahlias.

It was a beautiful ceremony, the fair young bride being a picture of loveliness, gowned in white hem-stitched organdie, made over flesh pink satin embroidered in forget-me-not blue, wearing a flowing veil held in place by a wreath of lillies-of-the-valley, and carrying a shower bouquet of blush pink roses and lillies-of-the-valley, while the tall manly groom completed the impression of an impressive and happy wedding.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lydia Halling, and the groom's sister, Miss Frances Alm, both dressed in organdie and carrying bouquets of white roses. The groom's attendants were his brothers, Gunnar and Harold Alm.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. L. M. Halling, and is a truly lovely and most accomplished young lady, who has a large circle of friends and admirers. She has been teaching school at Hamar.

The groom is a splendid young fellow, whose parents live near Hamar. He has accepted a good position in Minneapolis, where, after a brief honeymoon, he will take his bride to make their home.

The young couple received many beautiful wedding gifts in silver, cut glass and linen.

The Times joins their numerous friends in hearty congratulations, and wishes them much joy and happiness in their wedded life.

The bride has been the guest of honor at various showers given by girl friends before her marriage.

Editor and Mrs. Peterson returned Monday evening from Fargo, where they had attended the meeting of the North Dakota Press association. The convention was well attended and it was one of the most interesting it has been our fortune to attend. The Fargo press boys and their wives are royal entertainers, someone being constantly on the job to see that we were well taken care of. The big fish feed at Lake Lizzie, was, indeed, a rare treat. Next summer's convention will be held at Jamestown and Spiritwood lake.

Mrs. Aug. Evers suffered severe burns on her arm Monday evening, while in the act of filling the tank of her gasoline stove, preparatory to making supper out at the lake. The stove had run dry and she closed the burners, and started to re-fill the tank. It is thought the explosion took place when drops of gasoline from the pitcher she held, touched the hot burners. Her clothes caught fire, but fortunately Mr. Evers was present and ran outside with her, where he extinguished the flames, but not until her arm had been badly burned. He then put out the fire which had started in the kitchen when Mrs. Evers flung the pitcher away into a corner of the room. No
