

NOVEL METHOD USED TO ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Casselton Reporter: Mrs. John C. Ross, Jr., of Fargo, was an arrival in Casselton Monday, and that evening a party of young folks was held at the residence of her mother, Mrs. A. Burman, in which important events came to public notice. A novel method was in evidence by which was announced the engagement of Miss Harriet Strehlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Strehlow, and Mr. Sherman Pinkham, formerly of this city, later, of Fargo, but now of Poulsbro, Wash., in the banking business. At the proper time a suitcase was produced—marked "An Interesting Case." On being opened the case showed the portraits of Miss Strehlow and Mr. Pinkham. This announcement was a surprise to a good many, but both of the principals are so well known here, and are so capable and attractive in their personality that their contract for partnership is recognized as a very happy ending of youthful days. Both are graduates of Casselton high school, and Miss Strehlow is now one of our most popular teachers.
