FULL Automatic Starts and Stops Itself

Not Merely "Self Starting"

THE Matthews "Automatic Caretaker" requires no prompting from the human brain in the recharging of the storage batteries. Long before they are exhausted to the danger point the "Automatic Caretaker," of its own accord, automatically starts the engine recharging the batteries. And it automatically stops recharging when the batteries are full. A "self-starting" plant depends on some one's memory. The "Automatic Caretaker" can be obtained with
