The Standard Patriotic Quartette, which appeared at the opera house Monday evening, was greeted by a packed house. The quartette is under the leadership of W. J. Arnold, editor of the North Dakota Standard, of Lisbon. Mr. Arnold will be remembered by Binford people as touring the state last summer, in the company of Smith Stimmel, one of Lincoln's body guard, organizing home defense leagues throught the state, the organization in Binford being a direct result of their visit here. The program Monday evening was par excellent—the voices in the quartette numbers blending most beautifully, and the solo numbers rendered were fully appreciated. Mr. Arnold gave an enlightening review on the war and offered many worthy suggestions how all of us can do our bit in its successful prosecution. Mr. Arnold is a fluent speaker and unquestionably his tour over the state will do much to arouse a truer American spirit among some of our citizens—and we must admit there are some who need it.
