

COMMUNITY PROGRAM

The Southern Belles and Hon. Geo.
Wilson Will Appear Here
Dec. 10 to 11.

The second number of the Community programs will be given in the Binford opera house on Wednesday and Thursday, December 10 and 11.

The real object of this work is to awaken a genuine community spirit. Every effort is put forth to do away with class hatred in every form. The success of any community life is built on co-operation. The programs already given in Binford had this as the key note, and it is a pleasure to know that many have fallen in line with the service.

The Southern Belles, a company of three young ladies of exceptional talent combining youth and charm with unusual ability along their lines of musical entertainment, will furnish that part of the next program, along with Miss Burns, reader, and Mr. George Wilson, lecturer.

Miss Fredericka Scott, harpist and singer, is a young lady of marked talent along musical lines and entertains her audience in a splendid manner during her entire appearance.

Miss Ruby Gaston, pianist, displays wonderful ability as an accompanist and her sympathetic interpretation of the Southern Melodies marks her as an artist of exceptional talent.

Miss Lena Holt, violinist, is wonderful and must be heard to be fully appreciated. Her violin playing carries her audience back to plantation days in the beautiful Old South, and holds them enthralled with her melodies of Dixie.

Miss Helen Burns, who accompanies the Southern Belles, is one of the youngest readers appearing on the stage and is also one of the best. Of a wonderful magnetic personality, she charms by her very appearance, and captivates by her wonderful talent. Versatile and gifted, she renders with equal ability, little laughing, happy sketches or heavy dramatic readings. It is a privilege to hear Miss Burns.

Hon. George Wilson is a Southern gentleman, unassuming but yet genial and forcible. A man's man in every sense of the phrase. Of Scotch-Irish origin he is naturally a daring and progressive thinker, absolutely fearless in his utterance. He is a firm believer in the dignity of labor and the paramount importance of agricultural development. Widely traveled, a careful observer, and a thoro student, he compels attention by the constructive character of all his addresses. Mr. Wilson, with the Southern Belles, will give an exceptionally high-grade and pleasing entertainment. Be sure to hear them at the Community Programs, December 10 and 11.

The good work has started. Keep it on the go. Boost for it. Bear the dates in mind and bring your neighbor along to the programs.
