

To say that the audiences at the second series of the Community programs, held in Binford last Wednesday and Thursday, enjoyed every minute, is putting it mildly. Despite the adverse weather conditions the attendance was larger than was expected. The programs rendered by the Southern Belles, three young musicians from the south and Miss Helen Burns, impersonator and character reader, were par excellent. All of their numbers were heartily and enthusiastically applauded. The lecture part of the program was handled by George Wilson, and he pounded home some facts on community co-operation that is certain to awaken an interest and create a spirit of get-together for the advancement of Binford and trade territory. Mr. Wilson gave an interesting resume of what had been accomplished through the Community clubs in other sections of the state and pointed out clearly that this could be done here. He told a simple story of progressiveness that reached home. Next week The Times will print a more extended account of Mr. Wilson's address.
