

S. J. Doyle, Democratic nominee for the office of governor, was here Tuesday forenoon and spoke to a fair-sized gathering in front of the Maurer hotel, delivering his address from an automobile. Mr. Doyle is an uncontaminated victim of the flu, owing to the ban on indoor public meetings during the epidemic. Mr. Doyle is pleasing in appearance, keen and forceful, and gave evidence of being a gentleman who had facts, figures and proofs at his fingers ends. His speech was intensely listened to.
