The unmarried members of the Rebekah lodge entertained the Club members and their friends at the opera house last Friday evening. About 200 invitations were issued and a large number of folks attended. Games were played downstairs until supper was announced, which was served upstairs. Partners were found by matching slips of paper with corresponding name and number. After supper dancing was the diversion until a late hour. The receipts from the sale of supper amounted to $25.00, and what remained of the food was sold next afternoon, bringing $13.00 more. The young folks are royal entertainers and showed their guests a fine time.
