

Farmers' Elevators Complain.

North Dakota farmers' elevators see something radically wrong in the national railway administration's system of distributing grain cars.

Farmers' elevators, in complaining to the state railway commission, declare that they are doing the bulk of the business in their territory and that their plants are loaded to the caves with grain. In spite of this