

Hallowe'en Party.

On that mysterious night when—

“Buzzards buzz,

And the cuckoo coos, if he ever does,

And the lizards lie round and lizz,

And the bob-o-link bobs, if he knows his bizz,”

the pupils of the Binford High school entertained about sixty guests at a Hallowe'en frolic in the schoolhouse.

The interior was artistically and appropriately decorated with typical Hallowe'en colors, witches, ghosts, cats, bats, and grinning jack-o'-lanterns.

The hosts and hostesses were arrayed in striking costumes, and received the guests with wierd, blood-curdling incantations. Gloomy in-
