

This week The Times has sent out letters explaining the new government regulations affecting newspapers and a record of the subscriber's account. The publisher will obey these instructions to the letter, so if you do not receive your Times as usual next week; you will know you are in arrears. Naturally, we don't like to remove a subscriber for this cause, but Uncle Sam says "cut out the waste" and what he says goes with us.