

We're Late.

For the first time in the eleven years that The Times has been under its present management, the paper this week has missed making the mail on publication day. 'Tis true that some of the time we have barely made it by the "skin of our teeth"—but we made it. And this week it is no fault of ours, nor can the house at Fargo, from whom we buy our ready-prints be blamed. The bundle was delivered to the express office in Fargo Tuesday, but for a day it was delayed in transit, and Thursday was unloaded at Coopers-town by mistake.

Rather than go to press with but four pages, thereby omitting our serial story and other excellent features, we decided to wait a day.

The editor is perhaps more sorry than any of our readers that this delay has occurred, as we would have liked to maintain our upbroken record—but she's gone. ker-smash—so why worry.