

John Detwiller's separator, while finishing up threshing last Saturday, had a narrow escape from burning, when the interior of the machine caught fire.