

Mrs. F. Greenland met with an unfortunate accident last Friday evening. She was going from her home to the home of her son, Oscar, about 7 o'clock, and as a light snow had fallen, she was unable to see the icy places and slipped and fell, breaking the bones in her hip. She tried to call for help and that failing, she attempted to crawl to the house. When Steve Rorvig was on his way to Greenland's house he found her about the same time that Mr. Greenland went out to investigate the commotion he heard. They carried her into the house and Dr. Truscott was called to attend her. On Saturday she was taken to the hospital at Fargo. Her husband, and her son, Oscar, and Mrs. Clara Knapp went with her, and remained until Tuesday. The doctors entertain the hope that the broken bones will knit, and that Mrs. Greenland will again be able to walk.