

Buys Much Livestock in Indiana.

Sentinel-Courier: W. P. Hammer returned Wednesday from a trip to Crawfordsville, Indiana, the purpose of which visit was to acquire some cattle for the stocking of the big Hammer farm on the Northern edge of this city. He especially desired to acquire a Shorthorn herd bull; but the verdict of the Indiana stockman was "If you get the bull, you'll have to buy the whole herd." So Mr. Hammer bought a total of twenty head and same will be shipped hither immediately, arriving some time next week.

The particular prize of the purchase is the registered Shorthorn herd bull, Maxwalton Amateau, a great show animal that has won many prizes at fairs, exhibitions and shows of this particular breed.
