

allowed the bones to knit together without being properly set, thereby causing a shortening of the limb.

---