

The directors of the Red Willow Lake Park association met last Friday evening, and among other things decided to have the foundation for the pavilion laid this fall. A. J. Anderson and Otto Pritz were instructed to secure the services of an architect to draw up plans for the building, to be submitted later to contractors and lumber companies for bids. All this will be done during the winter months and active building operations will commence next spring.