

college.

The writer was in Sutton, Saturday, and while there had the opportunity of looking over A. H. Retzlaff's new elevator, to replace the one that recently burned. The building was practically completed except for the driveways, and these Mr. Retzlaff expected would be finished the first days of the week. The elevator is modern in every respect and has a larger capacity than the old one. Mr. Retzlaff is receiving a good share of the grain marketed in Sutton and there is no doubt that his business will continue to grow in the future.

School commenced Monday with