

Alfred Rorvig sustained a broken leg and other painful injuries while grinding feed, Monday afternoon. The drive belt slipped off the pulley on the feed mill while running at a high rate of speed, striking Alfred on the head and knocking him unconscious. He fell in such a position that the belt, which remained on the engine pulley, struck him on the leg with each revolution, breaking the ankle and the bone just above the ankle.

Forge Forum: Ludwig Lina of