A. L. Johnson, of Hannaford, delivered a splendid address to the large audience that crowded the opera house to the doors, last Saturday afternoon, at the Armistice day program. Mr. Johnson is a very able speaker, and being an ex-service man besides, his message to all was doubly interesting. Other enjoyable features of the program were musical numbers and a reading which were also much enjoyed. Following the program the ladies of the Auxiliary served lunch, which sale amounted to about $33.00. The sale of home-made candy brot $3, a neat sum for the day's activities. During the day the school children sold tags, and the sum realized from them was $12.00. This money goes into a fund to furnish occasional delicacies to the disabled war veterans who are spending their days in hospitals and sanitariums where nothing but bare necessities are furnished them by the government.
