

NEWS FROM CAMP BIXBY

In spite of the departure of Scoutmaster Bixby, the Boy Scouts set out on their second camping trip at Red Willow lake with considerable enthusiasm. The tents, four in number, were pitched on top of Vinegar hill, and the camp was named Camp Bixby, in remembrance of Mr. Bixby, who established the Binford Boy Scouts two years ago. A high pole was erected, at the top of which Old Glory proudly floats.

Mr. Bixby's place was filled by Stanley Ehlers as Scoutmaster and gloom dispeller. This was rather essential during the rainy days, as the rain tended to dampen some of our spirits, as well as the beds and the clothes. During this time the guards were on duty every night. Each night was divided into three
