

was given proper attention.

We had no train here on Monday. The passenger got as far as Shepard, got stuck in a snow drift, where they remained for several hours. When they finally backed out the crew decided to abandon the run to the end of the branch, and returned to Sanborn. The plow opened the road again on Tuesday.