

The work of the Binford public schools is reported to be progressing in a very harmonious and satisfactory manner, which should be a matter of gratification to all our citizens. The public school teacher is entitled to the hearty co-operation of parents as well as the general public. We are too often prone to neglect such encouragement and aid as would tend to lighten the burden of these teachers, whose calling and mission are of the highest importance to civilization and the future citizenship of the land in respect to its virtue and worth. Let us try more often to extend a sympathetic as well as helpful hand.
