

in Fargo this week.

Peter Gorthy, who has spent the winter months in Courtenay, has returned to his farm west of town to begin preparations for spring's work. During his absence someone had stolen and hauled away all of his flax, about 75 bushels. The thieves had even swept the granary nice and clean after removing the grain.