

Mrs. E. A. West, who is visiting at the home of her son, W. E. West, and family, had the misfortune to fall and break her arm last week. Both bones were broken at the wrist. Under Dr. Truscott's care the broken member is mending nicely, and Mrs. West doesn't feel much the worse for the accident.

Dr. Alfred Rorvig was given a farewell party last Wednesday evening, when about 70 people called at his home north of town, to spend the evening with him, before his departure for Wisconsin next day. Games, music, and social chat filled the hours, and at midnight a fine lunch was served. The party broke up at a late hour, the guests wishing Dr. Rorvig much success in his new location. He left last Thursday for Mellen, Wisconsin, where he will practise.

Blaford lost a highly esteemed family last week when Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson and daughter, Iva, removed from here to make the home at Blanchard. Mr. Hanson has accepted a position with the March Elevator company at Blanchard.

Sutton Reporter: There was considerable stir in Sutton Saturday night when the news was circulated that Kirby, the Northwood healer, would be here to see Grandma Hagner. After he was through there he was asked to go to Martin McWethy, where about thirty people had assembled to have him examine them. Fifteen of the number submitted to his treatment, which in all cases is pronounced quite severe. Just what miracles he is capable of performing is a little bit hard to define, perhaps, but it seems he has worked some change in the condition of Grandma Hagner, who has been a sufferer for four or five years. Time, of course, will tell if the change is permanent or not.
