

HAUGEN SELLS OUT

McHenry Tribune: A deal was consummated last week whereby N. O. Haugen sold his hardware business to B. J. Benson, of Kathryn, N. D., who will take possession as soon as the work of inventory can be completed, sometime the coming week.

Mr. Haugen has been in business in McHenry since 1913, ten years, and has been one of the staunch promoters of anything that was for the good of the town. They resided in McHenry a portion of this time, moving to McVillage a few years ago. He is not going out of business altogether in McHenry, as he retained the implement business which he will conduct. His son, Arthur, will be in charge as manager. He had more than he could handle conveniently with the hardware and implement business in McHenry, hardware, furniture and implements at McVillage and implement business at Aneta, so he decided to turn loose part of it.
