

Ethel King, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. King, took a fall Sunday and cut her forehead quite badly. She was playing hide and seek with a number of children around the depot yard, and rushed into a doorway to hide, not knowing there was a cellar underneath, and fell down headlong striking herself on a jar. Dr. Truscott took some necessary stitches in the wound and bound it up and it is healing nicely.