

vacation.

Four young men, students of the N. W. Bible school of Minneapolis, known as the Ambassador Quartette, held revival meetings in the opera house Monday and Tuesday evenings, with special meetings for children in the forenoon at ten o'clock. These gentlemen were good speakers and had no trouble keeping their large audiences interested. The singing by the quartette was exceptionally fine and thoroughly enjoyed.

Rain, which was general over the