
BLANCHE GREENLAND HAD SUNDAY EVENING BATH

Four University of North Dakota girls who fell from a raft in English Coulee on the campus and were unable to swim to shore were rescued by four men students who heard their screams Sunday evening. The girls are Annie Jacobson, Mohall; Frances Miller, Drake; Blanche Greenland, Binford, and Laura Dinkle of Fairview, Montana. The youths who saved the girls are Arthur Haugen, Mohall; Edson Conger, Elmhurst, N. Y., Fred Bjornson and Theodore Hjaltalin of Mountain.

Miss Jacobson had the narrowest escape for she could not swim a stroke and the other girls were barely able to keep themselves above water until help arrived. None of the students is reported to be the worse because of the experience.
