

Pekin Budget: Last Sunday the editor and folks accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Berger autoed to the site of the old Lee mill. This place which at one time was a most busy place both winter and summer, is now hardly to be found, as everything has been torn down and removed, and only a rockpile is left to show where the dam used to be, and a few pieces of machinery shows where the mill has been. We visited several other old places and passed over old trails, to find that time has wrought great changes everywhere.

Winford nimrods are preparing for