

before he takes his departure.

Misses Nellie Bopf and Phyllis Peterson, sophomore students of the Cooperstown high school, walked to Binford last Friday. From here Miss Bopf took the train to Mose. They were a pair of tired children after the 18 mile hike which took them about four and one half hours,— a pretty good pace for a grown-up. Phyllis, however, vows it's the last time and warns her dad that henceforth he must provide carfare. So there. Every day in every way, we're getting poorer and poorer.
