
Rain Does Damage

The railroad bridge west of town was put out of commission by the heavy rain yesterday afternoon and evening. About 16 feet of sand fill on the east end was washed out. No train can pass until repairs are made. The freight will have to remain at McHenry and the local passenger train will run to Binford and then make the return to Sanborn.

Damage was done to the foundation for the pavilion at Red Willow lake also. Heavy pressure by the from the inside caused the concrete to give way and about 75 feet will have to be rebuilt.
