

VERDICT FAVORS ROSE; BOISJOLIE TO APPEAL

Sentinel-Courier: Justice Nels P. Nelson awarded verdict Thursday in favor of Dr. F. W. Rose, who was plaintiff in an action brought to remove a renter, L. J. Boisjolie, from the farm owned by Rose, just south of Cooperstown. While the court found for the plaintiff, the damages demanded were not awarded, the court order merely ordering Boisjolie from the farm. Attorney Sad represented the plaintiff and Attorney Paulson of Valley City appeared for the defendant. An appeal is being taken by the defendant and his attorney.

The case has been of interest locally. The owner of the farm had this fall engaged a new renter for his farm. When the renter sought to move onto the place Mr. Boisjolie refused to leave, asserting he had a right to remain another year. The appeal of the case will make it possible for Boisjolie to remain on the farm until spring at least.
