Joe Storkson, who is farming in Rosendal township, has decided to quit, and is advertising an auction sale of his personal property, to be held on Friday, October 26. Since Mrs. Storkson died some years ago leaving him with a family of small children, Joe has found the handicap too great to endure, and expects to give the children the education they should have. He plans on seeking employment somewhere until a satisfactory location with good school can be located.
