

wisely in making this decision.

Ole Borgerson is enjoying the warm spring weather these days by taking an occasional outing by means of a buggy ride. He has been very weak for some time and is yet, although it is hoped that by being able to get out of doors to take advantage of the mild weather his condition will become improved.

This is just the right size town to