

The N. J. Olson elevator at Cooperstown burned to the ground last Monday night. There were about 35,000 bushels of grain in the house and the whole property is said to have been fully insured. Cause of the fire is unknown. Frank Howe was the agent, and we understand he was slightly injured by the fire while trying to save the books. However, his injuries are not serious.