

Anton Brendingen had his leg broken Tuesday by a cow kicking him. The injury is located in the lower part of his leg which indicates that the cow's aim was faulty. There are various ways for the unsuspecting human being to get injured by associating with such beings, but it seems that the limit is reached when a cow can reach out and snap a man's leg merely for what sport there is in it.

Julius Thoma was in town Monday