

Morris Greenlaud, who has been identified with the Gull River Lumber Co's yards here during the past three years, departs this week to take charge of a yard for that company at Esmond. He will be missed from among the boys here and the band will especially miss him as "Mose" and his trusty old slide have formed a large portion of the band since its organization. He turns over his slide and good will to little George Lockett so we can expect to hear some noise from the old instrument when Georgie cuts her loose. We wish Morris success in his new field of usefulness and hope he will find it convenient to return here for a visit at least if nothing more.
