

Ben E. Nelson is offering his opera house for sale in this issue to the farmers in this locality to be used for a co-operative store. In some parts of the state these stores are operated very successfully, and are the means of bringing a lot more trade here that would otherwise go to some other town. If Mr. Nelson finds the sentiment here in favor of such a proposition he will take steps to organize a company. The building could be fitted up for an elegant store with ample room for a large stock.
