

Members of the German Lutheran congregation dug a cellar under the parsonage, and from reports John Leininger and J. W. Bruns were the best to sling dirt, so they say themselves.