

Halloween passed off with very little of the usual festivities. A few friendly pranks were noticeable the next morning, such as gates being removed and a few signs changed about.