

The Capital, published at Saskatoon, tells of a series of wrestling matches that have been held in the province of Saskatchewan in which Roy Gralias of Fargo has been fortunate in defeating all comers for the heavyweight wrestling title of that province. He has been officially proclaimed champion by the athletic association. It seems that Gralias, who has been on the farm near Pekin this summer, hurried up to the Canadian northwest early in the fall and immediately began to lay the aspirants for mat honors low.
