

Postmaster Gunderson fell and broke his arm at the roller rink Monday evening. Mr. Gunderson is a fairly good skater generally, but this time he lost control of himself with the above mentioned result. The injury is confined to the radius at a point near the wrist, the bone sustaining a complete fracture. We all sympathize with the genial postmaster but he can consider himself lucky that the injury did not occur to the condyles of os humeri or tuberosity of ischium.
