

Hannaford Enterprise: Owing to the prevalence of measles and scarlet fever among the children of the village, steps were taken the early part of last week to prevent the further spread of these diseases. The school was closed for the remainder of the week, three or four families were quarantined, the school building and a number of private residences thoroughly fumigated, so that now there is thought to be no further danger from the spread of the disease. School commenced again yesterday.