

Martinus Norswing is slightly crippled up this week as a result of having collided with somebody during the ball game last Sunday. He is able to be around, but is rather particular as to where he steps.