

At a meeting of the base ball club last Saturday evening, Martinus Norswing was elected captain of the team. In a short address the newly elected officer laid down a few rules and regulations and outlined his policies to some degree, so that all know what to expect and it seems that such action is entirely proper for a poorly disciplined ball team is worse than a bunch of wild cattle.