

August Gunderson and three Smalaaden brothers loaded up on jack rabbit whiskey at Aneta and attempted to turn main street into a race course by running their team up the street, bringing the thing to a climax by running over a child, luckily it was not seriously injured. Three of them were arrested immediately, while the fourth one started for the country, but was soon captured by three men with an automobile, who police. They were put in the bridewell for the night, and the next morning were fined $25 apiece and informed that they could depart for their happy homes.
