

The new fire engine arrived Tuesday and was given its initial test yesterday. It is more of a modern type than the old one, although not so large. With the additional engine, it is likely that most of the fires can be controlled.