

The postoffice inspector was here last week looking over the affairs of the local office. This is his first trip to Binford since Mr. Lewis assumed the postmastership. Needless to say he found everything in tip top shape.